The Turks seeing a deadlock on these points apparently are not averse to deferring them. The upshot of private consultations now going on is that the conference probably will take a recess on or before December 15 till the latter part of January, leaving these questions unsettled, but having by then, it is hoped, agreed to a proliminary peace hetween Turkey and Greece and having also reached an accord on questions like the exchange of prisoners. Omission of American Aid Symptomatic of Way Europe Looks on War.

New York Herald Bureau, | London, Dec. 1.

An excellent explanation of why most of Europe thinks America ough to cancel allied war debts was afforded in this week's wide and bitter discussion of the claim put forward in a book by Field Marshal Earl Haig's

British Reaction Unfavorable.

It is only fair to say that in general British reaction to the book is unfavorable. National pride naturally welcomes a kind word for the national commander, who is still widely popular for many reasons. But national honesty likewine calls the author's claims to genius for the estimable soldier and gentleman partisan, prejudiced and exaggerated.

The authors say that Earl Haig wanted unity of command long before Fock on Mosul and the straits.

The French are not so eager for an adjustment as the British, whose chief considerations are the straits and Mosul. The whole question, with Turkish irregulars already operating against the Greeks in Western Thrace, is whether the situation in this part of Europe, and in Constantinople in particular, can be stabilized during such a recess. The Allies apparently are willing to take the risk for political reasons.

Soviets Will Back the Turks.

The Russo-Turkish bloc was emphasized here to-night when immediately after the strivial of George Trificterin, Soviet Foreign Minister, Izmet Pasha called upon the Russians and remained in conference until a late hour. Later Tchitcherin said:

"Two highly important principles will guide the Russian dolegation during the conference. One is self-determination and the other is the necessity for peace to the world. The first obviously applies to the Turkish nation. As regards the second principle, we consider one of the essentials of peace in the Near East is that the straits be effectively closed to all warships. These are the foundation stones of the Russian angles of the Russian policy in Laure Share.

The Bulgarlans apparently are the Bulgarlans apparently are the foundation stones of the Russian policy in Laure Share.

The previous best run to Cherbourg from this port was five days eight hours and nine minutes, made by the Cunarder Mauretania, which covered the long summer course of 3,201 miles with higher hourly average than the Majestic of 25.32 knots. GREAT PORK BARREL RAID PLANNED DESPITE PROTEST OF ADMINISTRATION CHIEFS

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD

New York Herald Bureau, Washington, D. C., Dec. 1. HAIRMAN LANGLEY (Ky.) of the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds to-day defied Administration leaders and notified them he would report his omnibus public buildings bill despite their opposition.

The pork barrel raid on the Treasury Mr. Langley is preparing will be "liberal" in character, and the bill will provide for expendi-ture of a minimum of $100,000,000. "Well, I am going to report it anyway," Mr. Langley retorted. "I know how the President feels about the bill. He told me not to make the bill too strong." "Well, you are not going to report it if I can help it," Mr. Mon-
